RURAL ELECTRIFICATION ADMINISTRATION

PROGRESS BULLETIN
GENERAL - NO. 60

FOR RELEASE NOT EARLIER
THAN 10:00 A.M. MONDAY,
AUGUST 22, 1938

The Rural Electrification Administration today announced 70 allotments for rural power line construction and wiring loans in 26 States totaling $13,175,500. The 12,118 miles of lines which this money will build will make electric service available to more than 40,000 farm families heretofore denied the safety, convenience, and comfort of high line electric power. A number of small rural industries, churches, schools, and other community buildings also will be served by the new lines.

To date REA financing has reached a total of more than $122,000,000. Of this amount about $31,500,000 has been drawn from the $140,000,000 set aside by the Congress for REA loans during the fiscal year 1938-39. By far the greater part of these funds has been used in the construction of rural power lines, a small portion being used to finance wiring and plumbing installations in farm buildings. Some of the funds have been used for the construction of electric generating plants to supply rural lines in communities where local sources of power were inadequate or where satisfactory wholesale rates could not be obtained.

Farmers provided with economical electrical power create a continuing market for electrical equipment and appliances for farm and home use. REA experience has shown that for every dollar invested by the electrical cooperative in power line facilities, another dollar will be spent by the farmers in the purchase of equipment, house and building wiring, and plumbing installations.

Those fields of activity are not alone in feeling the stimulation of REA financing. The lines to be built by today's allotments will require some 27,000 miles of metal conductor, 24,000 poles, 40,000 meters, and 2,600,000 man-hours of paid employment in the project areas alone.

Among the allotments today is one of the projects which supports REA's belief in cheaper costs for rural line construction. The project, centering in Curry County, New Mexico, has been constructing line at a cost of about $850 per mile as compared with $1,500 to $2,000 per mile in other areas before the advent of REA and average costs of just under $950 per mile on most REA-financed projects. This particular line, as are others in the south, is very inexpensive to build in that it is largely single-phase construction, the terrain is open and favorable, and there is little likelihood of sleet. The experience, however, is considered encouraging to the advance of rural electrification throughout the country.

Details of today's allotments are attached:

ARKANSAS 14 POPE
